

MICHAIL GKINIS AOYAMA

Michail Gkinis Aoyama (MGA) is a brand that creates innovative wearable art, blending Japanese craftsmanship with Greek-inspired design such as draping and folds fused with Japanese textiles.

Their signature product, the "Wearable Art Stole" blurs the line between clothing and stoles. It is designed to enhance the wearer's individuality and creativity.

Their signature pieces are versatile garments that can be worn as stoles, jackets, or coats. These items are designed to be inclusive, flattering various body types, genders, races, and ages. The brand's philosophy emphasizes embracing diversity and bringing out individual charm through their creations.

MGA uses innovative materials, including a high-tech Japanese knit fabric that doesn't fray when cut. Cotton, silk and wool combined with intricate techniques of leather made in Tokyo. The brand has received recognition for its designs, with some items winning the DFA Award.

- Website
- Facebook
- Instagram
- YouTube

Supporters

MAYOR OF LONDON

Bloomberg
Philanthropies

V&A

FORTNUM
& MASON
EST 1707

Pentagram

Design Notes

Weekly newsletter spotlighting creativity from London and beyond.

Your email

London Design Festival
14–22 September 2024
#LDF2024

Take Part

Become a Partner
Partner Dashboard
Volunteer

About

About London Design Festival
Global Design Forum
London Design Medals
Supporters
Press
Team
Contact
Careers

Follow

Newsletter
Instagram
Facebook
Threads
LinkedIn
Twitter

© London Design Festival. All rights reserved.
Company No. 4415754
VAT Registered No. 809647303

Privacy policy